Dedication

TO THE FACULTY

We do not inscribe to you this book because it contains anything that is worthy of the honored names with which we wish to associate it; nor yet because we would avail ourselves of a vulgar pretext to display an affection best honored by the silence which it renders sacred.

But we dedicate to you this book as a sincere token of our appreciation of your worth as professors and directors. As professors you are capable and resourceful, and had the gift of communicating knowledge; as directors you were ever ready to listen to us when we needed encouragement, and you were ever ready to advise us when we needed counsel.

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY MEDICAL SCHOOL

Historical

St. Ignatius College was chartered by the Illinois State Legislature in 1869. In 1909 the college had developed to a point where the addition of new departments seemed advisable and Loyola University was accordingly incorporated.

A large tract of ground was purchased at Loyola Ave. and Lake Michigan and buildings erected for the School of Science and the Cudahy School of Engineering. Schools of Law, Sociology and Pharmacy were established in rapid succession while an affiliation was formed by which the Illinois Medical College became the Medical Department of Loyola University. In 1910 the Illinois, the Bennett and Reliance Medical Colleges merged to form the Bennett Medical College, the affiliation continuing until 1915 when the Bennett Medical College passed under the complete control of the trustees and became the Loyola University School of Medicine.

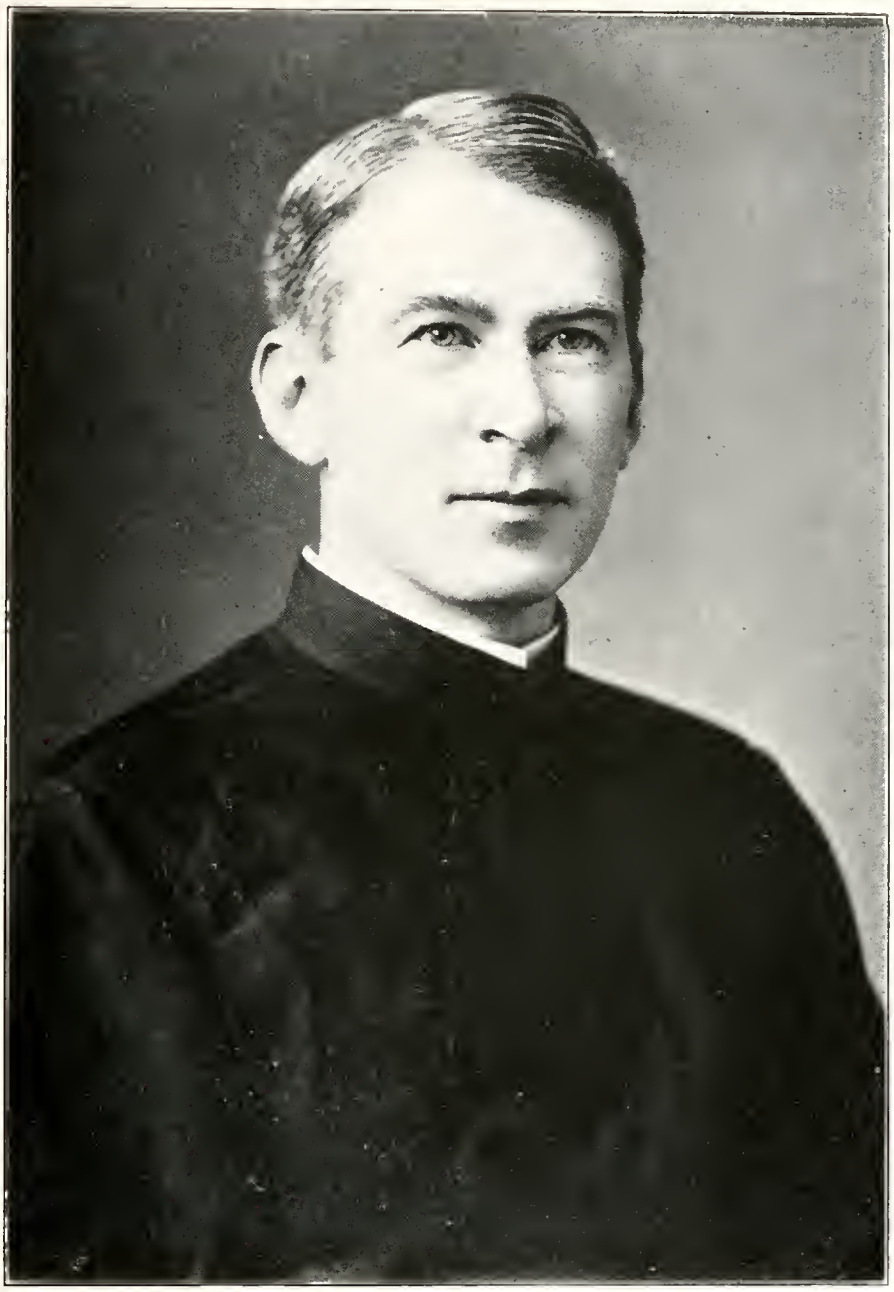
Foreword

In previous years the burden of the Year Book has rested upon the shoulders of the Juniors. When we were advised that they had decided to forego the responsibility, owing to the small size of their class, we felt discouraged.

Believing, however, that all things are possible where the right spirit is displayed, we set to work, and with the co-operation of the faculty and the University, have, to a certain degree, realized the object of our desires. There is a moment of anxiety which succeeds prolonged effort. When the labor which has become a fixed habit has ceased we miss the sustaining influence of its companionship, and stand with a feeling of embarrassment before the result of our ambition. We wish to thank those who have helped to make this work a success: the officers of the University, the faculty, and, lastly, the members of the class of '17, who as a body assisted us in every possible way.

We offer this book for your approval.

The Editors.



Rev. John Furay, S. J., President of Loyola University, was born in Omaha, Nebraska, and educated in Creighton University. He is related to Count John Creighton who founded the Creighton University. Joseph A. Stoeckinger, M. D. C. Born June 14, 1891, at Mishawaka, Ind. After finishing Grammar School at that place entered the Chicago College of Comparative Medicine, graduating in 1912. He then matriculated at Loyola University Medical School, graduating with class of 1917. Dr. Stoeckinger is a member of the Alpha Psi Faternity and of the Knights of Columbus. President of the Senior class, "Steck" is one of our very best students, having won a gold watch as a prize given for the best grades in Pathology in his Sophomore year. He was an externe at St. Elizabeth's Hospital during his Senior year, and has held a position as State Bacteriologist under Gov. Dunne. Appointed an interne, Cook County Hospital, 1917.

Deno F. O'Connor, B. Sc., was born June 21st in the year 1892, at Primrose, Wis. After attending the public schools of Primrose he entered the Verona High School, from which institution he graduated with the class of '10. At this time he enrolled at University of Wisconsin, spending two years at that place and matriculating at Loyola in February, 1913, and remaining in the class until the finish of his course. He is the type of man that everyone admires and has made many friends during his course of medicine. At present is First Vice-President of Senior Class, also an active member of Barry Council, Knights of Columbus, and member of Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity.

Richard A. Nagle, was born in Chicago, February, 1893. He received his early education in the Parochial Schools of Chicago after which he entered Armour Academy, remaining two years, when he enrolled at the Association Institute, from which place he was graduated. During his spare time Dr. Nagle has been engaged as Physical Director in the North Parks of this city. He has been a very active member of the class and has made a host of friends. Vice-President of the class of '17 and member of Finance Committee. He is also President of the Phi Delta Fraternity, and is serving an interneship at Columbus Hospital.

Chas. B. Alexander. Born March 24, 1895, at Cooperstown, Pa., (on a farm). A graduate of Cooperstown and Franklin High School. Attended Slippery Rock State Normal School for special work. Entered Loyola Medical College September, 1913, and is a member of the graduating Class of 1917. He is a member of the Research Society of Loyola University and an active member of Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity. Home address, Cooperstown, Pa. Dr. Alexander is an externe in St. Bernards hospital. "Alex" is an active class member; was Class Secretary during the Sophomore year, and always did his part toward success in class affairs, being known for his alacrity in collecting dues, flower funds, etc. He is a persistent plugger in his studies, has a pleasant personality, a handsome face and is well liked by all of his classmates.

SAMUEL AXELRAD. Born in Foltichen, Roumania, July 16, 1890. He was educated in the New York and Chicago Schools. Member of Zeta Mu Phi Fraternity. Dr. Axelrad is entitled to a great deal of credit for his untiring efforts to master the science of Medicine and is well liked by his classmates.

DAVID ALTMAN. Born in Calvary, Russia, where he received his early education. After coming to America, attended the Joseph and Stuyvesant High Schools in New York, later studied at the Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind. Dr. Altman came to Loyola in 1913.

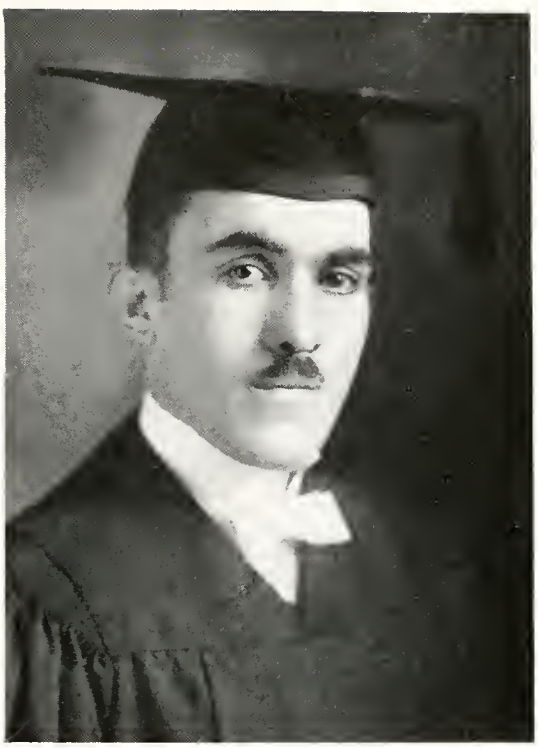
M. W. Aton. Born March 25, 1886, at Walesboro, Ind. Attended the public schools of Columbus and Indianapolis, later attended the Manual Training High School from 1900 to 1904. Dr. Aton began a course in Denistry in the Indiana Dental College in the year 1911, but after spending one year there decided to change to Medicine, and the following year enrolled as a student in Loyola Medical School, and is a member of the class of '17. Dr. Aton has been a very conscientious student and ranks near the top in both scholarship and attendance.

Ramon Berrios Berdecia, Ph. G., B. Sc. Born at Barranguitas, Porto Rico, Oct. 1, 1895. Attended the Public School of his home town. Coming later to the City of New York where he graduated from the E. P. S. High School in 1910. This was followed by a course in Pharmacy at the Ohio College of Pharmacy where the degree of Ph. G. was conferred upon him in 1912. Dr. Berdecia entered Loyola Medical School in 1913. During his four years here, by his general all around good fellowship has gained great popularity. He was Assistant Chemist to Dr. Huber for two years, showing at all times his knowledge of this branch of medicine. Dr. Berdecia is Secretary of the Latin-American Fraternity, member of the Loyola University Scientific Research Society. He was elected Prophet of the Class of 1917.



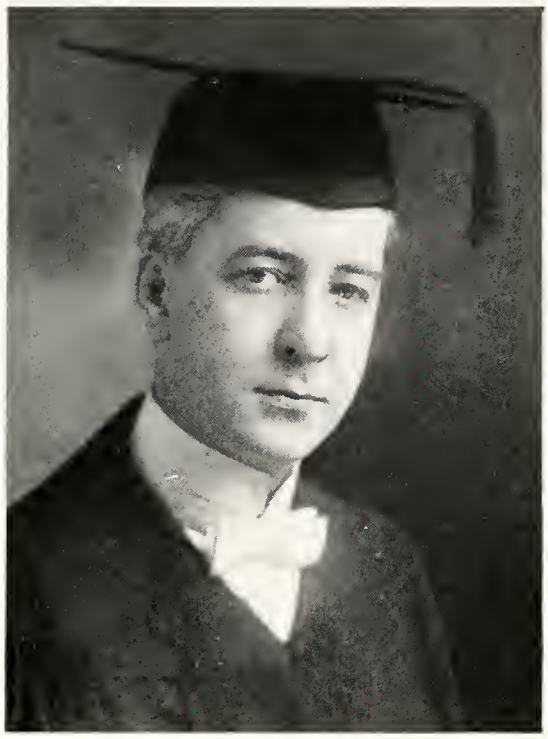
Pedro Rivera Aponte. Born at Morovis, Porto Rico, June 7th, in the year of 1893. Preliminary public school work at Porto Rico. Went to Washington, D. C., in 1909. From Washington, D. C., went to Front Royal in the State of Virginia and took an Academic course of four years at Randolph Macon Academy; this Academy awarded him a diploma with five distinctions on the following subjects: Latin, Chemistry, Physics, English and Mathematics. From Randolph Macon Academy he returned to Washington, D. C., where he had his first three years of Medical work at the University of George Washington. Entered Loyola University September, 1916, graduating with the Class of 1917.

O. E. Black. Born at Carrollton, Ill., 1887. Graduated Carrollton High School. Entered Loyola University, Medical Department, September, 1913. Dr. Black has held the position of Railway Mail Clerk and the same time pursued his Medical studies, and is one of the best and brightest members of the class. One of his chief accomplishments is going for many hours without sleep in order to be able to attend school and hold his position at the same time. We predict for Dr. Black a successful career. He is treasurer of the class of '17.

J. J. Belensky. Born at Taylor, Pa. Preliminary education received in the public schools, attended St. Thomas College, Scranton, Pa., for three years, later having a desire for a more extensive knowledge of his mother language, entered St. Procopus College, Lisle, Ill., where he finished his academic course. Matriculated in Loyola University Medical Department with the class of '17. Member of baseball team, member of Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity. Will serve interneship at State Hospital, Scranton, Pa. Dr. Belensky besides being a first-class student is a very pleasant mannered young man, and his quiet, unassuming ways have won us all.

WALDO F. BRINKMAN. Born in Spencer County, Lamar, Ind., on January 30, 1887. Educated in the public schools of Buffaloville, Ind., and Evansville High School. Finished High School work in the Loyola University, took a Business Course at Lochyear's Business College. One and a half years externeship at Park Avenue Hospital. Member Loyola Research Society, member of Tau Tau Mu Fraternity. Dr. Brinkman is a clever, bright student, who has the respect of his classmates and teachers. Faithful to his chosen profession, he should win regardless of competitors.

EARLE K. CARMICHAEL. Born at Limestone, Pa., Aug. 3, 1887. Moved to Trinidad, Colo., in 1892, where he received his early education, graduating from High School in 1905. He entered the University of Colorado in the same year, where he had two years of Liberal Arts, and two years of Medicine; entered Loyola Medical College in his Junior year (1915), and is a member of the class of '17. Dr. Carmichael is a member of Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.



DUNCAN D. CAMPBELL. Born July 20, 1885, at Rochester, New York. Received early education in Rochester Public Schools. Served four years in Hospital Corps of the U. S. Navy as Hosp. App. 1 I. Entered Loyola September, 1913, with the class of 1917. Elected Vice-President of the Freshman Class, and Business Manager of Year Book in his Junior year. Member of Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity and Loyola Scientific Research Society. Dr. Campbell is one of the sages of the class of '17. He has a very keen sense of the responsibilities under which a medical man must labor and has left no stone unturned in order to fit himself for those responsibilities and duties. Dr. Campbell possesses a keen sense of humor, unfolds a narrative with the skill of a trained monologist; has a record as a class worker equaled by few.

CHARLES HENRY CONNOR. Born at Holyoke, Mass., Dec. 15, 1883). Received his preliminary education in the public and High Schools of Holyoke. After spending four years in the Hospital Corps of the U. S. Navy, he matriculated in Loyola University School of Medicine in 1913. Member of Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity, Scientific Research Society, Knights of Columbus, Manager of Baseball team, President of Freshman class, member of the Photograph Committee of the Senior class. Dr. Connor is a faithful student, untiring in his efforts and at all times favorable to those influences that go to make conscientious professional men. He has done as much work for the class as any single member. Fate has ordained that he who works will win.

MARTIN R. CRUZ. Born in Bustos, Bulakan, Philippine Islands. Received the A. B. degree from the Sto. Tomas University of Manilla. Came to the States and entered Marquette University School of Medicine, and did his first three years' work in that school; came to Loyola in 1917 and has proved himself to be a very clever student in the short time he has been with us.

JUAN LASTRA CHARRIEZ. Born in Yabucoa, Porto Rico, June 24, 1894. Obtained his Grammar School education at Arroyo, P. R., and holds his High School Diploma from San Bernardo College, P. R. Came to the United States and entered Temple University, 1913, where he spent his Freshman Year, then came to Loyola where he has been since. Dr. Charriez served as Sergeant at Arms during his Junior Year and upon the record he made was elected Assistant Corresponding Secretary of the Class of '17, he is an earnest Student and at the same time likes his little joke, going on the theory that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. He also believes in the immortality of the "Crab." Grand Master Kiteu-Gu-No Fraternity.

J. B. Coppens was born at Lake Odessa, Michigan, on July 18, 1882. He was graduated from the Alto High School in the year 1900 and from Ferris Institute Pharmacy School, Big Rapids, Michigan, in 1902. Dr. Coppens is one of the pioneers of the class of '17—entering Loyola in 1913. He served as vice-president of the junior class and has at all times been an enthusiastic class booster.

William Arthur Davidson. Born in Alabama, November 16, 1888. Attended public schools and State Normal College at Florence, Ala., Howard College at Birmingham, Ala., and University of Tennessee Medical Department, transferring to Loyola University September, 1915. Is a Royal Arch Mason and member of Phi Chi Medical Fraternity. Dr. Davidson is one of the many Southern boys who have shown such excellent judgment in selecting Loyola with its splendid clinical facilities as the school in which to finish their medical education. He was elected Sergeant-at-Arms for the Senior year. "Dave" is well liked by his classmates.

CHARLES H. DICKINSON, born April 25, 1878. Received his preliminary education in the public schools of his home town at Atlantic, Michigan, and four years in Valparaiso, Indiana, University. Quiet, unassuming, he has us baffled.

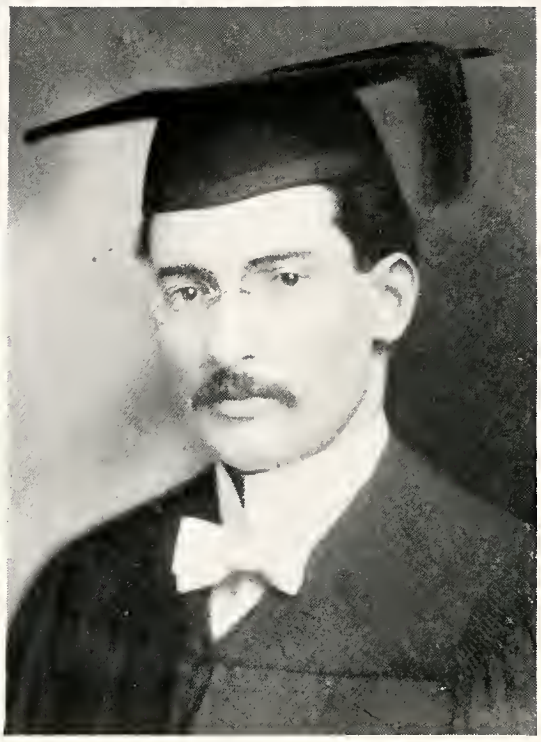
LESLIE DWIGHT DOUGHERTY was born at Neoga, Ill., Nov. 3, 1892. He received his early education in the Neoga schools, graduating from the Neoga Township High School in 1912. Coming from a family remarkable for its devotion to the science of medicine, he, too, decided to answer the "call," matriculating with Loyola in the fall of 1913. His father, sister and two brothers are now successfully practicing medicine in the state of Illinois. We wish Dr. Dougherty every success.

JOHN V. ETERNO. Born in Italy, where he received his early education. He completed his preliminary studies in Chicago and entered Loyola Medical School in 1913.

PHILIP J. EISENBERG. Born in Russia, May 13, 1893. He received his education in the grammar and high schools of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He entered the Senior Class of Loyola Medical School in 1916. Dr. Eisenberg is noted for his efforts to succeed in his chosen profession and already has developed diagnostic ability of which any one could well be proud. We predict success for him in the field of Medicine.

JOHN A. FLANDERS. Dr. Flanders declined to incriminate himself by a biographical sketch.

ROY HARVEY FREEMAN. Born in Whitman, Mass., 1887. Attended the Grammar and High Schools of that city. Later entered the M. & M. Hospital Training School for Nurses at Marinette, Wis., graduating in 1909. Dr. Freeman entered Loyola Medical School in 1913, and has been a clever, conscientious student, and if application to one's vocation will bring success, then he should succeed. He is a member of the Tau Tau Mu.



Joseph H. Freedman. Was born in Kansas City Missouri in 1892. He received his early education at his birthplace, he later attended the Manual Training High School of Kansas City, Mo., from which he graduated; later attended the Kansas City College of Pharmacy for two years and graduated in 1910 with a degree of Ph. G. After practicing Pharmacy for three years he entered the Loyola University Medical Department of Chicago with Class '17. Has been active in Class affairs, being elected Class historian of Senior Class. Dr. Freedman is a member of the Delta Chapter of "Zeta Mu Phi" Fraternity and a member of Loyola Scientific Research Society and at present externe at the Norwegian Lutheran Deaconess Home and Hospital.

Alfred L. Fein was born in Densburg, Russia, on December 28, 1888. He came to America in the year 1904. After pursuing a course in Chemistry and various other subjects, came to the conclusion that the field of Medicine appealed to him more than any others, he entered Loyola Medical School in 1913 and is a member of this year's graduating class. Dr. Fein was assistant to Prof. Huber in Chemistry for two years. He is a member of the Zeta Mu Phi Fraternity.

M. A. Glatt. Born in Russia on June 15, 1890. Came to America in his early youth and completed his High School education in Chicago. Dr. Glatt entered Loyola Medical School in 1913, and has taken a keen interest in class affairs, serving as class secretary in his Junior year, and is Assistant Editor of the Year Book. He is a member of the Zeta Mu Phi Fraternity.

Fred Harrison Glasco. Born on November 22, 1888, at Alto Pass, Ill. He received his early education in the Public Schools of Alto Pass, Ill., later graduating in the Alto Pass High School in 1906. The following two years he attended the Southern Illinois Normal University, Carbondale, Ill., and after leaving there taught three years in the Grammar Schools of Union County, Ill. In 1912 he entered the Chicago College of Medicine & Surgery but on account of his health was compelled to seek refuge in the Rocky Mountains, and we find him the following year matriculated in the Medical Department of the University of Oklahoma at Norman, Okla.; and later recognizing the advantages for the study of medicine in Chicago matriculated in the Medical Department of Loyola University in September, 1915.

RUDOLPH ALBERT GRIES. Born December 1, 1883, at Solinzen, Germany. Dr. Gries attended the Universities of Freiburg, Halle, Greifswald and Bonn—all in Germany. He has the degrees of L.L. B. (Bachelor of Laws), and of J. D. (Jurisprudential Doctor), 1905. He came to America in 1908 and entered Medical School in 1913 and is a member of the class of '17. Dr. Gries is a member of the Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity.

HELEN ELEANORE GORECKI, B. Sc. Born in Chicago and at a very early age her parents moved to Arlington Heights and Helen received her early education in the public schools of that place. She is a graduate of the Arlington Heights High School. Dr. Gorecki's mind soon turned to the natural sciences and after finishing a course in college, entered Loyola Medical School and is a member of the class of '17. She has always been a very popular student and was elected Class Treasurer in her Junior year, and Salutatorian of the Senior class. Her devotion to her chosen profession and her sunny disposition compel us to predict a successful career for her.

James Riley Hansard. Born April 10, 1893, at Elberton, Ga., where he attended Grammar School and graduated at the Elberton High School, 1908. He was employed by the Southern Railway up to 1913, at this time he realized the dangers of a railroad life are many and he decided instead of being a victim of a railway accident to acquire knowledge in the line of Medicine, so we find him matriculated at the Emory University Medical Department, 1913, where he pursued the study of Medicine for three years. Realizing the advantages of the larger clinics, he came to Chicago and matriculated at the Loyola University Medical Department September 27, 1916. Is an active member of F. & A. M., I. O. O. F. and B. of R. T.

Guy Chaille Haralson. Born at Harperville, Miss., Aug. 24, 1886. Moved to Vicksburg, Miss., when only a few years old and has lived there since. He received his preliminary education in the Vicksburg (Miss.) High School and the Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss. He became a registered pharmacist and worked at this business for a number of years, but being a grandson and son of a physician and not wishing to break the chain, entered upon the study of Medicine, and we find him a very popular member of the class of '17.

HENRY STUART HODGES. Boone (North Carolina) High School; Appalachian Training School; one year of pre-medical work in Charlotte, N. C. A traveling drug salesman for two years; entered the Maryland University School of Medicine and remained three years; desiring to know something of the west, came to Chicago, and on meeting some of the congenial students and faculty members of Loyola, decided to cast his lot with us and is a member of the class of '17. While Dr. Hodges has been with us for a very short time, we feel safe in predicting that he is of the right calibre and that he should be thoroughly capable of taking care of himself in any kind of competition in the thorn-strewn and ill-beset path we have dared to choose.

ROY W. HARREL, Ph. G. 'Received his early education in his home town of Norris City, Ill. Is a graduate of the Norris City High School; graduate of the University of Illinois School of Pharmacy, class of 1912. Dr. Harrel came to Loyola in 1914, and is a member of the class of '17. He is a member of the Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity and assistant editor Year Book, Senior year. Dr. Harrel is a very popular class member, unassuming and studious.

David Lewis Holland was born in Downer's Grove, Ill., in which place he received his early education. After graduating from Downer's Grove High School he entered the University of Illinois School of Pharmacy where the degree of Ph. G. was conferred upon him in 1905. Dr. Holland was actively engaged in the practice of pharmacy until 1913, at which time he entered Loyola University School of Medicine, where he remained with the class he started in, and succeeded in making many life-long friends. He has always been an active member of his class and has performed valuable services on various committees that he has served on in his four years. Member of Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity.

Lydia H. Holmes is the product of our own grand state, Illinois. Receiving her early education in the public schools, and the State Normal College, Normal, Ill., Dr. Holmes for many years directed her energies to teaching, only leaving that profession to enter into a broader field of usefulness for the betterment and uplift of humanity. She is an active member of the leading philanthropic and educational organizations of her home city and a member of the Chicago Medical Women's Club.

D. H. Howell. Born at Marion, Ill., of parents whose forbears came to America in time to take an active part in the Revolutionary war. Received his early education in the schools of his birthplace, later attended the State Normal University, Carbondale, Ill., and Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He taught school for three years; was a Railway Mail Clerk for several years, and in 1913 entered Loyola Medical School. Was Associate Editor, Year Book, in his Junior year, Associate Editor Loyola Magazine and Editor-in-Chief of the Year Book in the Senior year.

William H. Howard. Born February 2, 1894, Chicago, Ill. Educated in Chicago Public Schools, and St. Ignatius High School. From the beginning he has proven himself an excellent student, holding some of the highest grades awarded by the faculty. Associate Editor Sophomore year, Auditor Year Book Junior year, General Committeeman Senior year. Dr. Howard is President and member of Tau Tau Mu Fraternity. He is very popular with his classmates and we have no hesitancy in predicting a brilliant future for him. Dr. Howard will serve his interneship at St. Bernard's Hospital.

Jose Antonio Hernandez. Born in Jayuya, Porto Rico. Attended the Ponce High School and College of Agriculture and Mechanics Arts, University of Porto Rico. Instructor of Spanish, White Business College, Chicago, Ill. Medical studies at Loyola University Medical Department with class of '17. Special clinical course in Obstetrics at Chicago Lying-in Hospital and Dispensary, Externe to Dr. Scott, First Aid Service Stations of Chicago. Member L. U. S. S. Corresponding Secretary Senior Class Medical Department, Loyola University. His services as assistant to Drs. Wade, Scott and Harger during his college career and an interneship at the St. Joseph Hospital is the stepping stone to his future success in his profession.

Eladio Izquierdo. Born at Barcelona, Spain. Holds degrees of B. A., Barcelona Institute 1897, Bachelor in Theology, 1902, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, Valencia Seminary Institute, Spain. He later moved to Mexico and was Professor of Philosophy and Theology in the Caliseo Institute of Puebla. Dr. Izquierdo entered the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in 1913, but later came to Loyola and is a member of the graduating class.

CARL JOHAN JOHANNESSON
Born in Denmark. Entered the University of Copenhagen in 1910, after having passed examen artium (corresponding to the degree of B. A.). Took examen philosophicum (corresponding to the degree of M. A.) in 1911. Attended the Royal Military Academy and became Second Lieutenant in 1912. Came to Chicago and entered Loyola University in the fall of 1913. Member of University Club in Copenhagen, Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity, also Loyola Research Society. Dr. Johannesson was assistant in the Emergency Hospital of the American Bridge Company, Gary, Indiana.

BERNARD F. JUSATUS. Born May 20, 1885, in Chicago. Received his preliminary education in Chicago, matriculated with the class of 1903 at Chicago College of Pharmacy and graduated with the degree of Ph. G. in 1905, and has engaged in the retail drug business for the past eleven years. Member of Medical Research Society Loyola University and matriculated with class of '17. Dr. Jusatus is already a business man and has this advantage in his entry into the practice of Medicine.

R. T. Keeton. Born at Scotts Hall, Tenn., on the anniversary of the landing of Christopher Columbus, 1891. Attended the public schools of Scotts Hall, and later McFerrin's School at Martin, Tenn., and Valparaiso University at Valparaiso, Ind., after finishing his High School course. Dr. Keeton came to Loyola after the completion of one and one-half years of medical work in the University of Tennessee. It was the old story with R. T., namely; superior clinical facilities which only a large city can offer to the man in quest of up-to-the-minute medical knowledge. He contemplates returning to his home state to practice medicine.

Martin J. Kelly. Born in Chicago in June 1887. Received his early education in this city, graduating from St. Ignatius Academy; later attended the School of Arts & Sciences at Valparaiso, Ind. He is Secretary of the Phi Delta Fraternity. Dr. Kelly is a very popular class member, good natured, and reliable, and we all join in wishing him success in his chosen profession.

Walter G. Koppa. Born at Chicago, July 10, 1889. Educated in the public schools, later graduating from the McKinley High School. Pursued a course in Liberal Arts at Lewis Institute, spending one year there. Entered Loyola Medical School, and is a member of the class of '17. Dr. Koppa vies with Dr. Reyes for the distinction of being the smallest member of the class (in stature only).

Henry George Lescher was born at Chicago, Ill., where he received his early education at St. Philomena Parochial school and St. Ignatius College. Later Dr. Lescher entered Loyola University Pharmacy School, from which place the degrees of Ph. G., Phar. B., Phar. M., were conferred upon him. For some time Dr. Lescher did research work and taught Pharmacy but after a while decided to take up the study of medicine and entered Loyola Medical School where he has always been a conscientious and diligent worker.

Victor N. La Marre, A. B. Born in Montreal, Canada, where he received his preliminary education from the Christian Brothers College. At the age of 12 his wandering proclivities lead him far away to a distant clime. When he fell off o' the rods he found himself at Bourbounais, Ill. He began his classical course at St. Viator College, from which he graduated in 1902, receiving degree of Bachelor of Arts. After a few years in business the military life enticed him into its service, he enlisted in the United States Marine Corps in time to take the trip around the world. He has been with us for the past four years, having in the last year taken active part in the Department of Mechanical Therapy. "Froggy," as his dear friends call him, is a member of the Tau Tau Mu Fraternity. He is serving an externeship at St. Bernards Hospital.

Vernon L. Looney was born in the year of 1889 in the town of Breckenridge, Mo. After attending the public and High Schools of Breckenridge he entered the University of Harlingen, Tex., where he prepared for the study of medicine. In October, 1913, the Freshman class of Loyola was honored with the enrollment of Dr. Looney, and since that time he has been in attendance at Loyola, where he has always taken an active part in class affairs, holding several offices and always eager to serve on committees when appointed. Dr. Looney deserves much credit for the work he has done in his studies considering the fact that during the pursuance of his work he has been in the employ of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway in the capacity of Special Agent. Fellow of Nu Sigma Epsilon Fraternity.

Cleveland Charles MacLane, B. Sc., M. D. C., was born in Cleveland, Ohio, and received his early education in the Tremont public schools; finished his High School work in St. Ignatius College, Chicago. He entered the Chicago Veterinary College after leaving High School and was graduated, receiving the degree of M. D. C. Dr. MacLane received a B. Sc. degree from Loyola for work done in the School of Liberal Arts, and is a member of the graduating class of '17 of the School of Medicine. He is assistant to Dean Herzog in the Department of Pathology, member of the Chicago Pathological Society, the Illinois Microscopical Society, and a member of the Phi Delta Epsilon and Alpha Pi Fraternities. In the lexicon of youth fate knows no such word as failure, and the man who tries is the man who wins.

Charles W. Matlock. Born March 14, 1893, at Marion, Marion County, Kansas. Received his early education in the Marion public schools and was graduated from the Marion High School in 1912. Dr. Matlock entered the Medical Department of Loyola University with the class of '17. He was treasurer of the Sophomore class, member of Executive Committee, and is a member of the Tau Tau Mu Fraternity.

Leo V. Malone was born in the little town of Caragher, O., which place is the birthplace of many notable Ohio statesmen, on the 21st day of June, 1893. After receiving a public school education at that town the family moved to Toledo, Ohio, where Leo entered St. John's University and pursued a course in Liberal Arts for five years. The year of 1913 found Dr. Malone matriculated in Loyola and has remained with the class since that time, lending his assistance in all enterprises undertaken by the class. Member of Stag Committee, member of Loyola Research Society and Fellow of Nu Sigma Epsilon Fraternity.

William Anton Matushek, was born in Gleiwitz, Germany, in 1887. His early education was received at the Gymnasium at that town. After practicing in Germany he decided to come to America, and opened an office in Chicago, where he is well known. Dr. Matushek received much publicity in 1915 at the time that "Christy" Mathewson's arm went back on him. After being under the care of Dr. Matushek for some time the baseball world rejoiced at the return of "Christy" back into the game. In 1913 he entered Loyola and he has been with the class of '17 since that time, holding many class offices. He is Assistant Financial Secretary, Assistant Editor, Chairman of Cap and Gown Committee and an active member of Phi Delta Fraternity.

KEITH MEYER. Born in 1891, Brillion, Wis. Received his early education in the public schools of his home town, and the Appleton, Wis., High School; later entered the University of Chicago, where he spent one year and following in the footsteps of his father he decided to study medicine, and entered Loyola Medical School in 1913, and has missed few roll calls since. If devotion to his studies, and persistency in his efforts count in the making of his future career, then Dr. Meyer should be very successful in the practice of his chosen profession.

T. C. MILNER was born at Ashland, Neb., in 1883. After attending the public schools of Ashland his family moved and he entered the High School at Bellevue, Neb., from which institution he was graduated, later matriculating at Bellevue College. At this time Dr. Milner decided to study medicine and entered Creighton Medical College, remaining at that place for the period of three years. He entered the Senior class at Loyola with the class of '17 and has been an active member of the class since his entry.

ANTHONY MONTVID, was born in Russia, where he received his early education in the Russian governmental gymnasium. He was a successful journalist in Russian literature. In 1907 he came to America and became Managing Editor of the largest Lithuanian newspaper and has held editorial positions with other Lithuanian publications since that time. Dr. Montvid is an author, lecturer and speaker on Sociology. He entered Loyola in 1913 and is studying at Chicago University where he will receive his degree in Philosophy. Associate Editor of Year Book in 1916 and at present Associate Editor of Senior Class. Member of Loyola Research Society.

BRONISLAUS J. MIX. Born in Chicago in 1895. After completing his grammar education he attended St. Stanislaus College until 1913, when he joined the class of '17 at Loyola where he is very popular among his classmates. After serving an interneship, Dr. Mix intends to practice in Chicago. He is a member of Phi Delta Epsilon and Kappa Phi Delta Fraternities, as well as eight other societies and clubs in the city.

JOHN O'CONNELL. Born in Chicago in 1894. His early education was received in the public and High Schools of Chicago, after which he entered Loyola with the class of '17. Dr. O'Connell has taken a special course in Obstetrics in the Chicago Lying-In Hospital. After serving an interneship in Chicago he will open his practice in this city. Dr. O'Connell is a member of Loyola University Scientific Research Society and the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

JOHN H. OPITZ. Born in Chicago, August 9, 1892. Received his early education in this city attending Grammar and High School. Desiring to delve deeper into science we find Dr. Opitz entering Loyola Medical School in 1913. Dr. Opitz has always taken more than a passing interest in politics, and is well and favorably known in his home ward. He is a member of the Phi Delta Medical Fraternity.

ANDREW OTTERAAEN. Born in Bergen, Norway, November 16, 1883. Graduated from the Public School of Bergen and from Bergen's Tekniske Skole in 1901. Entered Loyola Medical School with the class of '17. Corresponding Secretary of Loyola Research Society, Consul of the Phi Delta Epsilon Medical Fraternity.

ROBERT J. PHLEGAR. Born at Floyd, Va., December 11, 1889. Received his early education in the public schools of his home city, the Pizarro High School, and the William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Va. After the completion of a business course, he entered the Medical Department of the Lincoln Memorial University of Knoxville, Tenn., and after the completion of two years there, went to the University of Tennessee, and in the fall of 1916 cast his lot with Loyola. Dr. Phlegar is another one of those gentlemanly Southern boys who have shown such excellent judgment in selecting Loyola as the school in which to finish their medical education.

Carl Wandar Halvor Rasmussen. Was born in Denmark. Completed his preliminary education in College, Copenhagen. Served in the Danish Army eight months. Took a trip to Australia, where he lived for eight years. Studied natural sciences as well as Theology, Philosophy and Psychology. Returned for a visit to the old country. Came to America, October, 1911. Has been engaged in Ministerial work. Studied in Chicago Theological Seminary, 1912. Before taking up Medicine he graduated from the American College of Physical Education. Received the degree of B. Sc. from the Sociological Department of Loyola University. Entered Loyola with the Class 1917 to study Medicine. Dr. Rasmussen is a member of Loyola Scientific Research Society. Was Historian of his class, 1915. Externe in Augustana Hospital under Dr. A. J. Oschsner.

Antonio R. Reyes. Born December 18, 1895, at San Pedro Macoris, Dominican Republic. Came to Philadelphia in 1904, where he attended Grammar School at the Lady of Victoria School. In 1908 he returned to Porto Rico and attended High School until 1911. He afterward returned to Philadelphia, where he finished his High School work at Temple University. He entered Loyola Medical School in 1913. "Petie" is one of the class favorites, small in size but large of heart. Member of Kiteu-Gu-No Frat.

MORRIS REICH. Born in Hungary, and received his early education in the schools of that country, came to the land of milk and honey in the year 1908. Dr. Reich, like his brother, is a studious young man and entered Loyola Medical College in 1913, and is a member of the graduating class of 1917.

ROBERT REICH, another of the family, was born in Austria-Hungary and received his early education in the schools of that country, coming to America in 1908, and, like three other brothers, came to the conclusion that the field of Medicine offered a world of opportunities to one who could content himself equally well in a laboratory or a sick room, entered Loyola in 1913 and is a member of the class of '17.

George Marchmont Robinson was born in Everton, Liverpool, England, August 16, 1884, and attended the William Henry School, later graduating from the Heyworth High School, then going to the University of Liverpool and taking a course in the Biological Sciences. Dr. Robinson is Instructor in Physiology, Loyola Medical School, Professor of Physiology, Central States College of Pharmacy, Secretary Loyola Scientific Research Society, and member of the graduating class of '17.

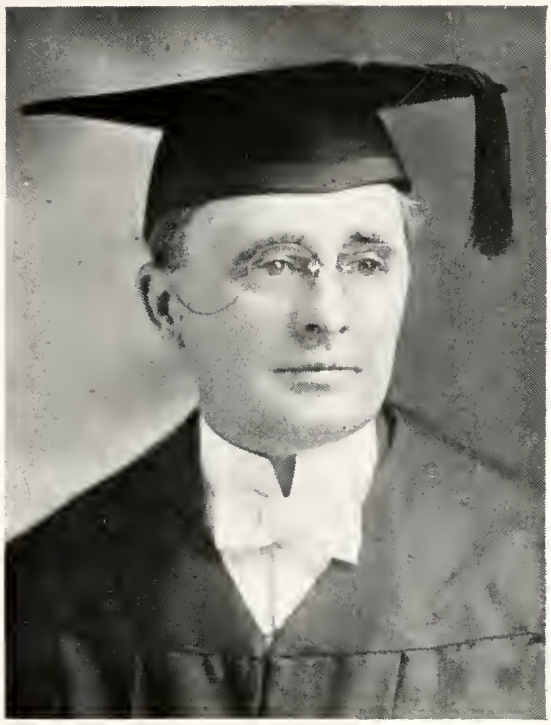
Sidney Mitchell Roberts was born Oct. 3, 1887, at Chicago, Ill., and since that time has made his residence in this city. His early education was received at the public schools of Chicago, after which he entered Evanston Academy at Evanston, Ill., from which place he was graduated with honors. After spending two years at the Liberal Arts course at Northwestern University, Sidney decided to enter into the study of medicine and enrolled into the Freshman Class of Northwestern University Medical Department, spending two years at that place. The following year found him at Loyola, where he remained and proved to be not only a good student but a fellow who is a friend to all. He is an active member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity.

NATHAN SWARTZ. Was born in old Constantine, Russia, in 1884. Educated in Russian Schools, migrated to England in 1898, and came to America in 1899. Remained in New York until 1901, but heeding Horace Greeley's advice, came to Chicago, studied Pharmacy, in which business he was engaged until he entered Medical School, coming to Loyola University in 1915, where we find him a member of the Senior Class of 1917.

ARTHUR SAUL SANDLER. Born in Cleveland, Ohio, November 3, 1893. Attended the Von Humboldt school and later graduated from Murray F. Tuley High School, both of Chicago. With Medicine as his life's work and study Dr. Sandler entered Loyola University Medical College in 1913. By his good nature he has gained the friendship of all his classmates who join in wishing him great success. He is a member of Zeta Mu Phi Fraternity and interne at Norwegian Lutheran Deaconess Home and Hospital. Art is one of those "hail fellows well met" and whose personality radiates sunshine on the gloomiest days.

DANIEL E. SHEA, B. Sc. Born at Hartford, Conn., 1893. Graduated from St. John's Prep. College, Danvers, Mass., in 1911; attended St. Bonaventure's College, N. Y., for one year. Dr. Shea has always taken more than a passing interest in class affairs, as the following record will show: Frehsman year, was class Secretary; member of Student's Council; Chairman Sick Committee; Asst. class Editor. In his Sophomore year served as class Editor; Sophomore Smoker Committee. In his Junior year was Asst. Editor of the Scrap Book; Chairman of the Stag Committee, and associate Editor of the Loyola Magazine. Senior year: Chairman of the Executive Committee; member of the General Committee; member of Student's Committee, and Asst. Editor of Year Book. Fellow of Mi Sigma Epsilon; Treasurer of the Phi Delta Fraternity, and a member of the Loyola Research Society.

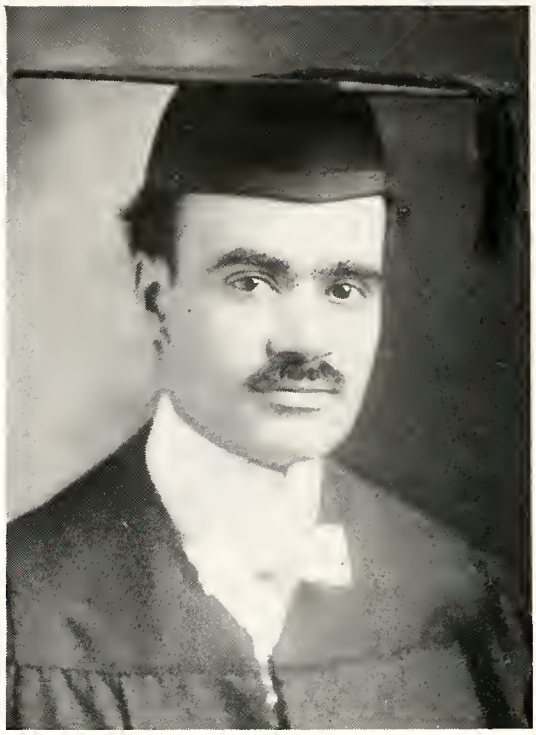
HERMAN M. SONDEL, Ph. G. Born at Lake Geneva, Wis., May 7, 1891. Attended the public and High School at Plymouth, Wis. Completed his High School work at the North Division High School, Milwaukee, Wis., entered Marquette University, Milwaukee, in 1908, from which school he received the degree of Ph. G. Dr. Sondel entered Loyola Medical College in 1913, and has been with us since, serving as Circulation Manager of the Year Book in his Junior year. He will be head interne at the Swedish Covenant Hospital after June 1, 1917.



R. Gillman Timms, B. Sc., was born at Chicago, Ill., in 1879, in which town he received his early education at the Parochial and public schools, as well as Loyola University, where he received his Science and Medical education. Dr. Timms has always been an active student and while being engaged in commercial lines, has pursued courses in Law and Engineering. He entered Loyola in 1912, where his activities have always been concerned with the welfare of the student body and the edification of the institution. Member of Loyola University Research Society, Business Manager of the Year Book, and Class Poet of class of '17.

George Ellsworth Turner, Ph. G. Born at Austin, Minn., November 13, 1882, where he attended the public and High School. Graduated from MacAlester Classical Academy in 1904. Attended Northwestern University School of Pharmacy, receiving the degree of Ph. G. in 1906. Entered the Medical Department of Loyola University in June, 1915. He is Recording Secretary of the Senior class. Dr. Turner has few superiors as a persistent plugger and loses very little time in pursuit of pleasure, knowing that the time to prepare for the battle of life is before one has lost the exhuberance of youth, and before Arterio-Sclerosis has set in. He is an externe at Augustana Hospital under Dr. A. J. Ochsner.

P. VOURRACHIS was born in the year of 1873 at Smyrna, Turkey, where he received his early education. Later we find Dr. Vourrachis at the University of Athens from which place he was graduated. It was then that he decided to come to America and we find him enrolled with the class of '17 at Loyola, where he entered the Senior Class.



RAMON M. VILLALABOS. Born at Encarnacion de Diaz, Mexico. He attended the Guadalajara Preparatory Academy, where he received his preliminary. Later we find him enrolled as a student in the Guadalajara School of Medicine and Surgery. Dr. Villalabos then came to the States and matriculated with the Senior class of Loyola Medical, and is a studious, quiet young man, well liked by students and instructors.

MAJOR L. WEIR received his early education in Rutherford College, North Carolina, later attending the University of North Carolina. He received his first three years of medicine in the Medical College of Virginia. Dr. Weir is a member of the class of '17. He is well liked by his classmates on account of his sunny disposition and his every-day-the-same optimism.

JAMES J. WALSH. Born in Chicago, Aug. 3, 1886. Received his early education in St. Patrick's Parochial School, and the McKinley High School. Soon after leaving school the "alderman," as he is known to his intimate friends, entered the U. S. Mail Service, where he performed faithful service until he realized that the field of medicine, while apparently overcrowded, offered the scientific mind ample opportunities in which to expand, and at the same time afford lucrative compensation commensurate with the amount of energy applied therein. Hence in the year 1917 we find Dr. Walsh a leading member of the Senior class, holding the official position of First Sergeant at Arms; an interne in Alexian Brothers Hospital, and a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Medicine in Loyola Medical School.

John Edward Zaremba. Born on January 23, 1885, in German Poland, where he received his public school education and early training; High School education and advanced study at Catholic College of the Holy Ghost at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Later engaged in the practice of Pharmacy for four years, then was employed in the banking business, first as clerk and finally as manager of the foreign department at a national bank. He has been engaged in this occupation up until the time of beginning the study of Medicine and Surgery. He speaks five languages, four of these fluently. Dr. Zaremba has at times amused us greatly with his quaint humor.

Joseph H. Wheat, born at Coker, Alabama, and attended the public schools of his home town, and at Tuscaloosa, Alabama. Received his high school education at Bridgeport, Alabama. Began a course in medicine at the University of Tennessee in the year 1913, but transferred his affections to Loyola in 1915 and is a popular member of our class. Let us add, right here, that Loyola appreciates the patronage of the Southern boys, as they are splendid students, and well behaved fellows.

LEWIS KENT EASTMAN. Born in Chicago June 24, 1895. Dr. Eastman is Obstetrical Interne at Columbus Hospital, corresponding secretary of the Phi Delta Fraternity, member of the Photograph Committee and a pioneer of the class of '17. Dr. Eastman is one of our most enthusiastic students, and is always ready to boost his Alma Mater.

JOHN COUGHLIN received his education in the Public Schools of Chicago, St. Ignatius College, and the Watertown College, Watertown, Wis. He entered Loyola Medical School in 1913 and is a member of the graduating class of '17. Dr. Coughlin has from the date of his entrance into our class been a very enthusiastic class worker, and has at all times contended for those influences that go to make honorable, ethical men and women. He is a gentlemanly fellow, good natured, and ready and willing to help anyone out of a difficulty. He served as class Editor, Freshman year; President, Junior class, and Valedictorian of the Senior class. Member of Tau Tau Mu Fraternity, and a Fourth Degree Knight of Columbus. Dr. Coughlin is at present an interne in Mercy Hospital.

Donat F. Monaco. Born Dec. 21, 1895, at New York City, N. Y. He came to Chicago at an early age, and was graduated from the Englewood High School in 1912. He later attended Loyola School of Arts & Sciences for one year, and in 1913 entered Loyola Medical School. He is a member of the Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity. Miniature in size, but large in mentality, Dr. Monaco is one of the most popular students in the class of '17. He is Senior Interne at the Lakeside Hospital.

T. F. X. Phelan was born at New York City, N. Y. After finishing Grammar School, entered High School and remained until he was graduated in a four-year course; after leaving High School he entered Niagara University and completed a four-year course in that institution. Dr. Phelan entered Loyola Medical School in 1913, and is a member of the graduating class of '17. He served as Class Treasurer in his Freshman year, is a member of the Phi Delta Fraternity and the Knights of Columbus.

ENRIQUE MARTINEZ. Born at Ocampo, Coahuila, Mexico. Received his grammar school education in Monterey, Mexico, and did his high school work at the Troy Academy, Troy, N. Y. Dr. Martinez is a graduate of that institution. He later entered the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, where he did three years' work, and in 1916 transferred his affections to Loyola. He is a member of the graduating class of '17.

RUSSELL BARBER STREET. Born in Suffield, Conn., July 10, 1891. Attended Suffield Public School and Academy. Attended University Maryland Medical School, 1913 to 1915. Realizing that Chicago offered Clinical facilities second to none, Dr. Street entered Loyola in his Senior year. Dr. Street is of that quiet type who says little but utilize their energy in deep thinking. He is popular with his classmates and his cool deliberate conclusions in matters requiring mature judgment is often helpful to some student in need of advice. He is Circulation Manager of MEDIC, '17.

Lucinda Margory Woelffel was born in Nova Scotia, Canada, and received her education in the public schools of Oregon and California, graduating from the Mendocino High School, California; and the San Francisco School of Art, San Francisco, California. Dr. Woelffel entered Loyola Medical School in 1913 and is one of the pioneers of the class of '17. Studious, quiet and well behaved, she commands the respect of all.

Class History of '17

In surveying the field of the last four years over which we have passed, it is with great delight that we reach the end of our college student life. As we reflect, we see ourselves coming from the various quarters of the earth; some direct from college; some from the farm; some from the shops, stores or warehouses; others from various trades and professions; others, again, merely from walking up and down the globe, all having one center in common and one goal in view, viz., LOYOLA UNIVERSITY and an M. D. degree—the greater and nobler being who is at the gate of life to welcome the new-born, watches over the health and welfare of mankind, and who finally is consulted when the call for departure from this life is made. It is not measured by what we know, but by what we do. We have evolved from freshmen to seniors, and congratulate ourselves on our success and our victories for LOYOLA!

Necessarily, in the evolution of our four years of college life, many interesting events have happened, amusing incidents occurred, educating points gained, friendships made, fellowships enjoyed, battles fought, some defeat sustained, more victories won and cemented comradeships established. There is nothing like the human touch the human. So we gathered and began to organize.

The class officers for the freshman year were:

C. H. Connor, President.
D. D. Campbell, Vice-President.
D. E. Shea, Secretary.
T. F. X. Phalen, Treasurer.
James Madison, Sergeant-at-Arms.
Dr. MacClurg, Honorary President.

Through these, our worthy staff of officers, we had successful games, socials and banquets, and finished the year's work to everyone's satisfaction.

After a much needed vacation, we returned as sophomore, and the following were elected officers:

G. W. McCrary, President.
E. G. Nylander, Vice-President.
C. B. Alexander, Secretary.
C. W. Matlock, Treasurer.
V. N. LaMarre, Sergeant-at-Arms.
D. F. Monaco, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Dr. Huber was unanimously elected Honorary President.

This year was a very busy one, indeed, and we had to work very hard, but we were amply repaid at the end of the year when the final examinations came. We proved ourselves worthy of the occasion. At the end of this year we are pleased to state that our beloved college became part of LOYOLA UNIVERSITY!

Our class officers for the Junior year were:

John Coughlin, President.
J. B. Coppens, Vice-President.
M. A. Glatt, Secretary.
H. E. Gorecki, Treasurer.
J. L. Charriez, Sergeant-at-Arms.
V. L. Looney, Sergeant-at-Arms.
G. W. McCrary, Editor.
D. D. Campbell, Business Manager.
H. M. Sondel, Circulation Manager.
C. W. H. Rasmussen, Class Historian.
Dr. H. A. Norden, Honorary President.

This was a happy year, everything so different to what it had been the two previous years. We felt the time approaching when the degree would be ours. The year passed very quickly, and after four months' vacation we returned to complete the work, and, of course, this, the Senior year, the best of all four years.

The class officers were as follows:

Honorary President, Dr. H. N. MacKechnie.
President, A. J. Stoeckinger.
First Vice-President, D. F. O'Connor.
Second Vice-President, R. A. Nagle.
Valedictorian, J. P. Coughlin.
Financial Secretary, W. A. Matushek.
Recording Secretary, G. E. Turner.
Treasurer, O. E. Black.
Class Editor, D. H. Howell.
Associate Editor, A. Montvid.
Class Poet, R. G. Timms.
Chairman Executive Committee, D. E. Shea.
First Sergeant-at-Arms, J. J. Walsh.
Second Sergeant-at-Arms, W. A. Davidson.
General Committeeman, W. H. Howard.
Corresponding Secretary, J. A. Hernandez.
Assistant Corresponding Secretary, J. L. Charriez.
Salutatorian, H. E. Gorecki.
Class Prophet, R. B. Berecia.
Class Will, G. C. Haralson.
Class Historian, J. H. Freedman.

It is with great hearts and minds we bid farewell to our beloved professors and teachers, to whom we feel assured that nothing but our successful future can adequately compensate for what it has meant to us to have been recipients of their wonderful gift of learning and instruction these four years just past. Many a time, we are sure, things will be easier to do, brighter to look at, and infinitely more hopeful to anticipate because of their patience and painstaking attitude towards us during this time, while now of the past, yet never to be forgotten in the future.

As space does not permit a personal reference to each, we with united gratitude to all, cover you with the veil of thoughts calculated to effect the highest overshadowings of joy; by seeing each one of us reaching the hill-top of our ambition and applying truly what you have taught us. Thus being a credit to you, and honor to our beloved Alma Mater!

To the Juniors we extend our hearty congratulation as you step into our places. Thanking you for the comradeship and fellowship enjoyed while with you, and wishing you nothing but the best of the best in every respect, we bid you farewell.

To the Sophomores and Freshmen we extend our heartiest congratulation in your respective advancement in the medical studies, and with a word of encouragement and exaltation (talking from experience), "it is worth while."

Last, but by no means least, we affectionately and in tender sincerity turn to our beloved Alma Mater, full of gratitude and appreciation for the shelter, protection and care under her wings these past four years. We sincerely hope and shall endeavor to effect a continuous and growing relationship between the Alumni and her, while we have to part as to locality. We still in minds and hearts will go closer together, recognizing the fact that we are but fruits from her seasonal harvest, spreading the truth of her teachings and principles of scholastic learning as an educational seat and center. From this center we prophetically see men and women of the highest qualities and with the greatest qualifications go out into the world teaching people the ways of life and right living.

PATRIOTISM.

"Somewhere in desolate wind-swept space—
  In Twilight Land—in No-Man's Land—
Two hurrying Shapes met face to face,
  And bade each other stand.

"And who are you?" cried one, agape,
  Shuddering in the gloaming light;
"I know not," said the Second Shape,
  "I only died last night."

As we finish our college career, our country is at war with the Central Powers of Europe. Many of us will be called to serve in the Medical Corps, and we have no hesitancy in saying that when such a call comes, not one will refuse to go.

The Medical Men of America have a record for patriotism, unequalled by any other class, trade or profession, and their tombs dotting former battlefields are silent evidence of their valor, and of their willingness to serve their country in time of need.

It is a fact, as has been said, that the physician gets credit for his mistakes only, and that the really great deeds he performs for humanity never come to light. He probably does more for charity than any one, outside of the clergy.

He has his own particular code of ethics, to which he adheres absolutely. In war-time we find him with the troops at the front, in districts infested with cholera and typhus; in the laboratory and in the hospital, working without rest or sleep, with no thought of compensation—anxious only to serve humanity.

Columbia can trust her physicians to do their duty in the present war, and she knows it. D. H. Howell.

OUR PROSPECTS

The close of collegiate life approaches, and as we make our departure, the vivid reminiscences of four years with the books and with sincere, loyal and learned professors, awake tender emotions as we weigh the value of the storms and sunshine of our experiences which have marked our successes and defeats.

We at this time feel the increased responsibility that recent years have added to our profession. Our field broadens as society changes. Our duties pass from the individual, the home to the state, the nation, and the world. Our public duties impose obligations. We rejoice to be free to think and act in the field of the noblest of all sciences, in search for the truth, the light to make whole, to preserve, and to make happy.

The noblest study of mankind is man. We will launch strong and confident into a life work with firm purpose and steady grip. Our associations have made us strong. We come from the various parts of the earth. Our experiences have taught us to understand the useful and to appreciate the color of life.

The greatest aim in life is to be useful men and women. The world stands aghast today as social structures of their government are being rent by social upheaval forces. Our patriotism is the devotion to our sciences for truth, and the progress of the world. Our duties will lie healing the wounds of the home, the state, the nation, and the world. We may pursue this course under different flags, but under each flag our battles will be fought for common purpose—the preservation of the individual, state, nation, and world.

Lincoln, at his Gettysburg speech, said: "The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it never will forget what the brave men who fought and died for the preservation of the union did here."

So might we say that the world will little note nor long remember what during the last four years we have said or done. But it can never forget what Hypocrotes, Galen, Versalius, Murphy did. And it will not forget what we do if the love for our profession is guided by honest purpose.

Their great souls fought and bled under the onslaught of deprivation, want and sacrifice they offered and gave to the world. We reap the harvest of their labor, new truths, the happiness of every nation!

MY OLD HOME IN THE SOUTHLAND

To my old home in the Southland
  Back I wandered. Years had fled
Since I parted from my mother
  With sad heart and aching head.
Oft I yearned to see the old home,
  Oft its absence did deplore.
And, returning, thought to find it
  As I left it years before.

But how changed I found the old home:
  Gone the stile-block at the gate;
Gone the old porch, and the cedar
  Where the red-bird called its mate;
Gone the elm-tree, and the rope-swing
  Where we'd glide so swift and high,
Called, with childish exaltation,
  Playing "let the old cat die."

Then I heard the vespers ringing,
  Heard it 'cross the meadow swell;
But, alas! it, too, had altered—
  It was not the same old bell.
To my old home in the Southland
  All seemed strange now when I came;
Not a scene I cared to gaze on,
  Not a vision was the same.

At the door I met my mother,
  Kissed the tear-wet cheek with joy,
And forgot—forgot the changes
  Of the home since I's a boy.
What cared I now for the elm-tree,
  For the old porch and the swing?
Ah! it mattered little to me
  Whether red-birds came to sing.

So I fondly clasped my mòther;
Ah, what joy in that embrace!
And again I kissed the wet cheek
And I gazed into her face.
Oh, my old home in the Southland!
It a home will ever be;
And I care not for the changes
If my mother welcomes me.

HENRY S. SPALDING, S. J.
REGENT.

"Honor the physician," writes the inspired penman, "for the need thou hast of him; for the most high has created him. The skill of the physician shall lift up his head, and in the sight of great men he shall be praised. The Most High has created medicines out of the earth and a wise man shall not abhor them. The virtue of these things is come to the knowledge of men, and the Most High has given knowledge to men, that He may be honored in His works. By these he shall cure and shall allay their pains. Ecclus. 33:1-7.

THE IDEAL DOCTOR.

We meet him at the very threshold of life. His hand welcomes us into the world, and with our hand in his we leave it. Many of us never would have seen the light but for him, and some of us would now be stumbling on a painful journey through life, blind or crippled but for him. He has protected our childhood. He guards our youth, and we look to him to lead our age. No one can count the homes that would be broken and scattered but for him, and no one can estimate the value of those whom he has saved to labor and to lead in life.

He is the great enemy of death. He seeks him in every form and on every field. Often he has to confess defeat, but never is he beaten without a combat that stays, at least for a time, the progress of the all-conquering one. Like every soldier, his way is fraught with danger. He lives in what we may call the shadow of disease. Pain and sorrow are his daily companions. He breathes infection. He handles poisons more deadly than art has ever brewed. Things that are foul touch him; they may soil his hands, but they cannot soil his soul, and down in our hearts we all admire and love the doctor man.

Power begets responsibility. Much is required from him who has received much. The more a man is physically, mentally and spiritually, the more he owes to his Creator, society and his fellowmen. According to this the doctor's responsibility is great. He has education. He is a gentleman. He has skill. Such a man is a power for good. He can make men happy or miserable. He inspires respect. He invites confidence. To him men lay bare the deepest secrets of their lives. To him they intrust those whom they love better than life.

Character is a power. It matters much who prescribes and who operates. He who inspires his patient by reason of his character has much in his favor. We all know that it is less painful to be carved by the one we admire and love than by one whom we dislike or despise.

Then, the physician deals with something more than disease. He deals with morals. To no one is it more evident than it is to him that the wages of sin is death.

Man is not a mere animal. In the deepest depths of his being there is something spiritual, something no scalpel can lay bare, something no glass can make perceptible, something too ethereal for human hands to touch or control. It is hard to conceive of a physician who does not see and admit the workings of a more than human power in the complex organism we call life and he who deserves the name will refuse to invade for any cause the province of the Lord of Life. He knows that his mission is not to interfere with life, but to protect it, to enlarge it, to prolong it.

His trained eye can often see signs of conduct that mean ruin for the patient unless it is corrected. Never, until all things are revealed, will it appear how much evil and sorrow and shame conscientious physicians have prevented by their advice and kindly interest.

In the abyss of memory the true physician buries what he has seen and heard, and nothing will induce him to betray what he has interred.

To him the little child and the helpless woman are sacred things; in his hands they are as safe as they would be in the arms of their own mother. His charity is boundless. No one knows it so well as the clergy. It is a pleasure to say this after years of experience. In these days the spirit of charity prevails in our land. It is need, not creed nor greed, that determines our benefactions. No one is so poor that he cannot get relief at the hands of the very best. A refusal to treat a patient who cannot pay the fee is practically unheard of.

We do not value our doctors as we ought. They stand ready to do their all, at any hour, for any one. We applaud and reward the man who rushes into the sea or into the flames to save a life. The danger and the bravery are evident and emotion carries us away. But we ignore the deeds of those who daily face dangers just as real but not so evident and count it only a duty.—Selected.

SELECTED

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you
But make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting;
Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies;
Or, being hated, don't give way to hating;
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream, and not make dreams your master;
If you can think, and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you have spoken
Twisted by knaves to make traps for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and mend them with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch, and toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says, "Hold On!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes or loving friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And, which is more, you will be a Man, my son.

From "Rewards and Fairies," by RUDYARD KIPLING.

Sayings of the Faculty

Dr. Wade: Gentlemen, this is no vaudeville show.

Dr. Kreissel: I will tell you about the kidney stones.

Dr. Reading: I would like to see the following doctors after the lecture.

Dr. Graves: This drug is especially indicated in this particular condition.

Father Spalding: I will concede all of that.

Dr. de Roulet: Would you operate immediately, or would you wait?

Dr. Anderson: Remember the pain in this condition is usually referred—not local, but referred.

Dr. Elliott: A good time was had by all.

Dr. Carberry: Go into a hospital, even though it has only twenty beds, but go into a hospital.

Dr. Lewis: I expect to grade pretty close this time.

Dr. Burkholder (either one): I will pluck any one who mentions Argyol.

Dr. Holmboe: I can't talk against that jabbering back there; what do you think this is? Now remember always over-correct the deformity.

Dr. Zurawski: Let's see, where did I leave off at the last lecture?

Judge Hogan: When you are called upon to testify as an expert you should go well prepared.

Dr. Marcusson: As Christian Fenger used to say.

Dr. Solomon: What is the joke?

Dr. McClurg: They got to get what I give them, or they get nothing at all.

Dr. W. J. Sullivan: There are cuspidors for people to expectorate in.

Dr. Huber: You got to get it, that's all there are to it.

Dr. Pat Sullivan: A doctor must know something, nowadays.

Dr. Gray: Is Campbell here?

Dr. MacLane: It can't be done without a make-up.

Dr. Norden: There is no excuse for not knowing something about this.

Dr. Murphy: When indications are present, operate! Don't wait.

Dr. MacDiarmid: You may get by on your nerve for a while, but you should know something.

Dr. Grim: I don't care so much about the operation; I want the etiology and symptoms.

Dr. Whalen: Now, doctor, just what do you mean by Heberton's Nodes?

Dr. de Tarnowsky: In writing an examination, always make a good opening statement.

Dr. Suldane: Ricketts will be my next lecture.

Dr. Weiss: SILENCE!

Dr. Herzog: I am glad to see you this morning; I will quiz you.

Major Bispham: You soon learn to like sow-belly and bacon in the army.

Dr. Horstman: Tell us about the Neurogenic Theory.

Dr. Pollock: I will lecture today on German measles.

Loyola University Medical Doing its Part

The Loyola Medical School was probably the first medical school of the country to apply to Washington for instruction in medical field work. In April, 1916, Dr. Henry Lewis of the Loyola faculty, a member of the army medical reserve corps and for a long time in service assisting in the physical examination of recruits, suggested to the trustees that it would be well to give the graduates in the medical school the special training which would be needed in case they were called for service.

The trustees took up the matter at once, and Dr. Alfred De Roulet, the Secretary of the medical department, wrote to the Surgeon General at Washington and received the following reply:

From: The Surgeon General of the Army.
To: Dr. Alfred De Roulet, Secretary,
Loyola University,
1358 Fulton Street,
Chicago, Ill.
Subject: Lectures on Military Surgery.

1. The Surgeon General directs me to acknowledge receipt of your communication of the 8th instant, and in reply to inform you that if the bill now before Congress should become a law, and the medical corps be increased, the office will be glad to comply with your request for the detail of an officer of the medical corps to deliver a course of lectures on military surgery before your school of medicine, conditions on the Mexican border permitting.

2. It is suggested that you take up this matter again with this office after July 1, 1916, the date the bill now before Congress will probably go into effect.

3. Every effort will be made to comply with your wishes in this matter.

(Signed) Robt. E. Noble,
Major, Medical Corps,
U. S. Army.

In January, 1917, Dr. Lewis and Dr. De Roulet went to Washington for a conference with the authorities. As a result of this conference, in which the principal medical schools of the country participated, Major Bispham was deputed to begin a course at Loyola in February and continue for four months. The Major instructs the Senior medical students two hours every week. As this class numbers a hundred and is one of the largest of any medical school in the country, Loyola will have an opportunity to do its part in supplying the demand for the medical corps of the Army and Navy.

It was first intended to rush the work of the Seniors and graduate them some weeks before the regular time; but a few days ago the college received a communication from Dr. Franklin Martin, the head of the Council for National Defense, to let the students finish their course and even make the year of internship. It was pointed out that England had in the beginning of the war made a mistake by withdrawing medical students and professors from schools. Later it was found necessary to take them from the ranks and return them to the colleges to teach or complete their medical education. Profiting by the mistake of England, the Surgeon General of the United States Army has recommended to all medical Schools to continue with the regular work, and no medical student will be called for service until he has completed his studies.

The lectures of Major Bispham have been most useful and instructive. They are illustrated with lantern slides and moving pictures.

ST. BERNARD'S HOSPITAL

St. Bernard's Hotel Dieu Hospital and Training School for Nurses

St. Bernard's Hospital was established in November, 1905, and the Training School in February, 1906, by the Religious Hospitalers of St. Joseph. In 1916 an affiliation was formed with Loyola University. Since the establishment of the Training School St. Bernard's has grown from an institution with 9 nurses and less than 50 patients to a modern hospital with 72 nurses and 200 patients. Since the organization of the Training School, 118 nurses have graduated, 106 being registered in Illinois and neighboring states, a very splendid testimonial of the character of the work of this school.

Clinics are held at St. Bernard's for the students of Loyola University Medical School, the surgical clinic being under the direction of Prof. W. J. Hurley while Prof. John B. Haeberlin is in charge of the medical clinic.

In the Pathological Laboratory students receive instruction in blood and urine analysis, microscopy and tissue examination. The instructor in this department being the Sister who has been director of the laboratory for the past five years.

Instruction in Fluoroscopy and Radiography is given in a splendidly equipped laboratory.

Recently an additional floor with accommodations for 30 patients has been added, and further extensions are contemplated. Diet and serving kitchens have been enlarged so that it is now possible for each nurse to receive a thorough practical training in dietetics in addition to the regular course given by a graduate dietitian.

OBSERVATION of a few simple rules will tend to increase the efficiency of your telephone service:

Enunciate clearly.

Speak directly into the transmitter.

Speak in natural, well modulated tones.

Consult the latest telephone directory before making a call.

In giving the number to the operator, make a slight separation of the numbers, as "Wabash 29-92."

To attract the operator's attention, move the hook up and down slowly four or five times or until she answers.

When answering, give your name, the name of your firm or your telephone number.
